Vehicle fire threatens Index Dollar General

County Surveyor Curd's pickup truck catches fire in the store's parking lot

By Miranda Cantrell James

The West Liberty Volunteer Fire Department responded to an automobile fire Saturday afternoon outside Dollar General at Index, which threatened to ignite the building.

West Liberty Fire Chief John Conley said the vehicle, a 1979 Jeep pickup owned by County Surveyor Joe Curd, caught fire in the store's parking lot approximately two feet from the building.

"We think something caught fire under the hood," Conley said. "The truck was next to the building and there was a chance the store could have also caught fire. Approximately 15 to 20 people were evacuated from the building as a precaution; the Dollar General manager locked up the store while we put out the

New lime recommendations from UK's College of Agriculture

Lime recommendations from the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture will go into effect next month. The existing regulations have not worked well, so changes were made to ensure that farmers receive the correct lime amounts needed for their fields.

Soil acidity is one of the biggest soil factors affecting plant growth and ultimately crop yield and profitability. Most soils in Kentucky are naturally acidic so periodic applications of lime are needed to neutralize acidity and maintain crop productivity. Lime quality can vary widely depending on the chemical properties of the stone and the particle size. Chemical properties determine the amount of acid that can be neutralized, while size equates how quickly it will dissolve into the soil.

For more than 25 years, lime sources in the state have been tested by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture to ensure a reasonable quality was available to farmers. In the past, lime was not meeting the minimum standards of 80 percent calcium carbonate, 90 percent of particles can pass through a 10-mesh wire screen sieve and 35 percent can pass through a 50-mesh wire sieve, was reported to not meet the standards. However, banning of the product's sales for not meeting the standards has only been done through voluntary compliance by the crushed stone industry.

Chemical properties and particle size are combined into one value that quantifies the effectiveness of the lime. This is called the relative neutralizing value of RNV. UK's lime recommendations have been based on an assumed RNV of 67 percent. However, the range of purity, fineness and RNV has made it difficult to get accurate lime recommendations from different sources of lime. In the past year, 42 percent of the lime sources did not meet the requirements. Either the fineness or the purity was below standard.

So UK has revised its recommendation. Under this new program, the Kentucky Department of Agriculture will sample and test the quality factor of ag lime sold in the state and provide data to UK and others. UK will base new recommendations on 100 percent effective lime or a 100 percent RNV.

Because bulk lime rarely is 100 percent effective, the amount of bulk lime needed must be determined for each lime source available, based on RNV. Farmers can use a simple formula or table or table to determine bulk lime recommendations. For example, if UK recommends that a field needs 1.33 tons per acre of 100 percent effective lime, and the quarry has an RNV of 52, then that means 2.5 tons of lime per acre will be needed from that quarry. The formula for this is 1.33 tons per acre divided by 52, times 100. It will vary depending on the source of the lime.

If a farmer has two choices – one with an RNV of 54 and one with an RNV of 67, and the recommendation is for two tons of 100 percent effective lime, which means 3.5 tons or 3 tons, respectively, of bulk lime. And if the cost is $19 per ton to spread it, the price is $33,250 or $28,500 for 500 acres. Source: Lloyd Murdock.

Viable options for forage production

Are there viable options for forage production this summer with reduced hay crops and dry pastures? I wish we had a perfect answer, but the options are similar to past years. This year may be more critical though than other years, given the tight hay supplies around the country.

There are two good UK Extension resources on using summer annuals in a forage system. One is using the traditional summer annual grasses like pearl millet and sorghum-sudangrass. The other publication discusses recent UK research on planting corn for late fall/winter grazing. Corn can be planted for grazing during the growing season, but remember corn is a "one crop" forage. In other words, it does not regrow after summer grazing. Contact our office to request free copies of AGR 88 – "Producing Summer Annual Grasses for Emergency or Supplemental Forage" and AGR 152 – "Grazing Corn: An Option for Extending the Grazing Season in Kentucky."

It will be very important to plan for the fall and winter. Stockpiling will be "money in the bank" this year, assuming we get timely rains, when it comes to having feed supplies for late fall/winter grazing. Nitrogen prices are high, but the value of having high quality forage available in the field will more than pay back N costs. Remember that stockpiling should start in early August by grazing or haying the existing stands, then applying Nitrogen. The other "best option" is using small grain crops for late fall/early spring grazing and/or annual ryegrass.

Remember that grazing management can extend limited pasture. Rotational grazing and strip grazing are techniques that can help you use "more of what we have." This will be especially important this year when we do not have forage to waste.

Thanks

We, the Wrigley Scholarship Committee, would like to thank the Morgan County High School Seniors that applied for the Scholarship. We are encouraged each year by these applicants, and it renews our hopes for the future. We would also like to thank Mr. Addison Whitt and Mrs. Anita Frederick for allowing us to conduct the interviews at the high school. And lastly we would like to thank everyone that donated money to make this scholarship available.

Thanks so very much.

Morgan County Sorghum Festival only 92 days away!

By Linda Oakley

The countdown has begun! It is 92 days until opening day of the Morgan County Sorghum Festival, and when you are a kid, 92 days is an eternity. There's the Fourth of July, the Bluegrass Festival and long, hot summer days. Then the county fair, school starts and Labor Day. Finally, it is Sorghum Festival time. But when you are all grown up and a festival committee person, 92 days is crunch time. Ninety-two days, people! We've only got 92 days!

Well, that may be a little melodramatic, but believe it or not, the festival will be here before we know it. The festival committee is planning a knock-out affair this year with some new and interesting changes. One of those new additions will be an antique mall set up in the Community Center. Genuine antique dealers will fill the booths with offerings from days gone by. Hopefully those offerings will help fill the town with people who have never been here before coming in search of an antique treasure.

The theme of this year's festival is Happy 100th Birthday Morgan County Courthouse. The parade theme is Law and Justice. That ought to make for some fun and interesting float entries.

Your festival committee is working hard to breathe new life and fun into this year's festival. Some new things, some old things, some changes, some stay-the-sames. Watch this space for updates and information. Get excited about this annual boost to our economy. Send out an e-mail or an actual bonafide letter with a stamp on it, encouraging everyone you know to mark the date on their calendars. The festival will be the last full weekend of September – Sept. 28, 29 and 30. Tell them to come and share the fun, food, booths and music.

Yikes! Ninety-two days! It's comin' at us like a freight train. Let's all get on board to make this the most successful one yet.

Sa-a-a-y, does anybody know anything about a rumor going around about a giant sorghum jug? Hmmm...

Sign-ups for rural water being taken

The Morgan County Water District has begun accepting sign-ups for service from residents included in the recently-funded Phase 12 project areas. The district must have $50,000 in local tap-on fees in the bank before USDA Rural Development will release funds to begin the project, said Water District Manager Cynthia Montgomery.

The $2.2 million project is designed to serve nearly 200 new customers in rural Morgan County.

The following roads are to be considered for waterline extensions if there are enough residents interested in signing up for water service:

Wilson Cemetery Road, right fork of Pleasant Road, Hwy. 1161, Coon Hollow Road, Rube Branch, Indian Branch, Mortica Branch, Trace Fork, Steele Branch, Barker Branch, Benton Branch, Hwy. 205, Demund Loop, Halsey Fork, R. Stacy Road, Nickels Branch, Walters Branch, Robinson Branch, Glen Lawson Road, Woody Cantrell Road, Pelfrey Branch Road, Big Muddy Branch, Old House Branch, Dedman Branch, Hinson Branch, Piney Branch, Splitwood Branch, Pasture Branch, Wheeler Road, Keeton Branch, Little Caney Branch, Hwy. 1715, Doc Ison Branch, Fyffe Branch, Left Fyffe Branch.

"Tap-on fees are currently $590 and we will work with individuals who wish to make arrangements to pay this fee in installments," said Montgomery, "but we must have $50,000 from tap-on fees in the bank before this project can begin."

"The district is currently working with funding sources to get all the required paperwork submitted and hopes that construction can begin by early spring," Montgomery said. "We will have a map in the office so all who are interested in being seved are invited to drop by and check to see if you are located within the areas to receive water."

The office is located in the former Kennedy Memorial Library building at 408 Prestonsburg Street, or call 743-1204. C-tf

June 25--Greetings from the Junction.

I heard we have a couple of honey mooners over on Smith Creek. Robert and Rebecca (Hutchinson) Cantrell were married on Saturday at the Index Community Church. Robert is the son of Larry and Margie Cantrell of Hwy. 589 and Rebecca is the daughter of Karen Hutchinson, of Spaws Creek. Congratulations to the couple and welcome to the neighborhood.

Elva Jean Pack called on Saturday and updated me on her family, Johnny Wright had to go to Lexington for shots in his back. Nick Howard, who is her daughter, Sheila's husband, fell off of a 2 story house and was taken to ARH and then to Lexington. He has a pin in his leg and is probably going to need more surgery. Then her oldest son, Ronnie, who lives in Piqua, Ohio is in the hospital with pneumonia.

My son, Aaron, is celebrating his "18" birthday on June 27. A classmate said to him, "How cool you are going to be 18". Aaron said, "Yea right. I am now legally of age to buy cigarettes that cause cancer, I have to sign up for the selective service, and if I get arrested for anything I now have to go to adult court. Yea real cool!! This is my responsible child. I hope that he has a Happy Birthday!! Papa and Mama Cantrell would like to wish Kara Cantrell a Happy Birthday. Kara turned 11 on Sunday. Can't forget Ronnie Cantrell, he is the son of Ronnie and Trish Cantrell. Then one more, Jocelyn Bolin had a birthday. Happy birthday to all of you!!

I guess that's it for now.

Special Session Politics

By Todd Duvall

FRANKFORT — Gov. Ernie Fletcher has his work cut out for him in the next month if he is to succeed in convincing skeptical Democrats in the General Assembly to give him a bill providing huge tax incentives to attract coal conversion plants to Kentucky.

Those Democrats see the special legislative session Fletcher plans to call beginning July 5 as nothing more than a political ploy to boost Fletcher's chances of being re-elected in November.

And of course, they're right. Everything Fletcher says and does from now until the election will be crafted toward helping him win a second term in office.

So from the start, Fletcher has the heavy burden of convincing the Democrat lawmakers who control the House of Representatives the need for the tax incentives is so great that they themselves will rise above politics for the good of the commonwealth.

Good luck.

After all, those same Democrats barely three months ago, in their regular session, passed and sent to the Republican- controlled Senate coal conversion tax incentive legislation similar to what Fletcher is now seeking. In the final deadlock between the House and Senate, the incentive legislation never made it to the Senate floor for a vote.

At the time, Fletcher was locked into a heated primary battle for his party's renomination and spent much of that regular session on the road raising campaign cash and handing out state cash at county courthouses and city halls across the state.

His critics point out that he wants now what he was too busy to work for three months ago.

And Fletcher's case for public investment in coal conversion plants didn't get any help last week when Republican U.S. Senator Jim Bunning and Senate Minority Leader Mitch McConnell couldn't get public subsidies for coal conversion included in federal legislation.

If the federal government isn't going to subsidize these massive and expensive conversion facilities, why should Kentucky taxpayers? And lacking federal support, are the plants feasible economically even with Kentucky taxpayer support in the form of hundreds of millions of dollars in tax incentives?

That's a big question Fletcher must answer.

Despite his experience in the General Assembly and Congress, Fletcher hasn't shown much talent for shepherding legislation through the House and Senate here. In this special session, he already has broken the cardinal rule that you have all the proverbial ducks lined up before setting a date and agenda for a special session.

That means specific legislation drawn up and agreed to by the leaders of both chambers. It prevents protracted writing and rewriting of bills, haggling in committees and delays that can turn a $60,000-a-day session into chaos.

And you don't load up the session agenda with a lot of extraneous issues that may be politically helpful but will only infuriate the opposition to take revenge on the key issue of the session, incentives for coal conversion plants.

That's especially true if Fletcher is tempted to try to pass bills overturning domestic partner benefits of state universities or funding for hundreds of millions of dollars in mostly university building projects Fletcher vetoed last year.

Democratic lawmakers are not going to give Fletcher four months of handing out oversized checks on university campuses all over the state, and if he tries, he will only come out looking weak and politically inept.

The truth is that Fletcher has hitched his political wagon to an issue — converting coal into a synthetic fuel — most Kentuckians know absolutely nothing about and probably care even less. He also leaves himself vulnerable to criticism for giving tax money away to big business at a time when the state retirement systems are in deep financial trouble, the schools are underfunded and the roads are full of potholes.

In fact, if the governor really wants to get the voters' attention, he'll call lawmakers back to the Capitol next month to do just that — appropriate big bucks to fill some of those potholes.

Curd was in the truck when it caught fire but was not injured.

Approximately 12 firefighters and Patrolman Zach Haney of West Liberty Police Department responded to the call, which was placed by a Dollar General employee at 1:07 p.m.

"The fire was contained in a matter of minutes," Conley said. "There were no injuries or damage to the building. The operation went like clockwork; our firefighters performed well and took care of the situation very efficiently."

Letters

Dear Editor:

My name is Edgar Refitt. I was at the special meeting of the Fiscal Court on June 13 to discuss the road condition on Coon Creek Road. I had asked (magistrate) Frankie Spencer to come out and take photos of the road because it was tore all to pieces. There were six additional farmers at the meeting. I overheard the board speaking of where the road money was going only to find out that the road money was going to pay the county's jail bill to hold prisoners. This really upset me, so I spoke to the board that we should be able to drive on safe roads. Safety to me should be the number one issue of Morgan County.

They were also talking about a 1% employee tax to assist the department to fix the roads. I believe they didn't even get to the issue, but went on to another issue. I am a taxpayer, just like the other citizens of Morgan County. Something is totally wrong when our taxes are not used for our roads.

I would like to take this opportunity to thank Judge Tim Conley, Frankie Spencer and Lynn of the bridge and road department. On June 14, approximately 9:00 a.m. I received a call from Judge Tim Conley, who requested that I meet him on Coon Creek Road, which I did. We met and I showed him the terribly unsafe places in Coon Creek Road and also where there was no protection against running off the cliffs.

Tim Conley and Lynn, the Road Engineer, assured me that they would be there Monday or Tuesday of the following week. Instead, they came even earlier on Friday, the 15th, and took care of most of the problems on Coon Creek Road. They patched the road for the time being and told me that when they got next year's budget they should be able to resurface the road.

I want to personally thank Tim Conley, our Judge Executive. We, the citizens of Morgan County, should be honored to have an official of his integrity. I would also like to take the time to thank Frankie Spencer for taking the photos to show the fiscal court how unsafe the road was. I would also like to thank the Morgan County Road Department for making Coon Creek Road safe and drivable for the families living on the road. Judge Conley didn't let politics get in the way of allowing us to have safe roads when the road department funds are almost bankrupt..

Sincerely appreciative,
Edgar Refitt

Dear Editor,

These charges that are being brought against Judge Executive Tim Conley are petty and just down right unbelievable. The people that started this investigation are just trying to bring a good man down. I believe that Tim Conley has done a good job since he has been in office. We have seen more progress in Morgan County since Tim Conley took office than ever before. We need to put this behind us and move forward and let Tim Conley continue to take Morgan County in the right direction. Tim Conley does have and will continue to have our support during this ordeal. I urge other Morgan Countians who feel the same way that we do to take a stand and let your voice be heard. We must stand up and unite together. Otherwise we will fall.

Shawn and Debbie Bolin

Dear Editor,

I believe that the charges filed against Judge Executive Tim Conley are ridiculous. It should never be a crime to give something to a church. Tim Conley has done many good things for Morgan County. More people should follow in his footsteps and give their time and support to churches, organizations, individuals, etc.

I have lived in Morgan County for over twenty years and I have never had city water until now and I can thank Tim Conley for that. My opinion is that the game playing and mud slinging should stop. We should all move ahead and work together with Tim Conley for the future of Morgan County.

Council repeals city car sticker ordinance

Accept bid for two police cruisers from local dealership

By Miranda Cantrell James

The West Liberty City Council voted to repeal the annual city sticker tax at its regular meeting Monday evening, following the passage of a city payroll tax during a special meeting earlier this month.

Council members voted to dispense with the repeal's first reading, and then voted unanimously to lift the $10 city sticker fee for those who live and/or work in West Liberty city limits.

In other business, the council heard a civic organizations request from Kiwanian Danny McKenzie, who asked the council to provide partial funding for an ice machine to be used at local youth facilities including the Kiwanis pool and little league fields.

"There are several concession stands at our youth parks that we have to transport ice to," McKenzie said. "We need a 500-pound commercial grade ice machine for these facilities, and ask the city to provide half the machine's cost of $3,200-$3,500."

After discussion, the council voted to delay the issue to allow civic groups to also confer with the local tourism committee about funding, and to compare prices among manufacturers.

Council members awarded a blacktop bid to Standafer Builders at $56 per ton, and voted to approve the first reading of a cable franchise ordinance renewing the city's contract with cable provider Time Warner, as Time Warner representative Carla Deaton was in attendance.

A zoning change request of residential to business from landowner Jimmy McKenzie regarding a property on Broadway Street was also approved for Morgan-Franklin LLC to relocate its offices into a house on the property.

The council also heard a report from Police Chief Kelse Hensley, who updated members on the department's efforts to purchase two new police cruisers.

"We have looked at local dealerships' prices as well as the state contract price," Hensley said. "The state contract price is $17,500 apiece for two new 2006 Chevrolet Impalas from a dealership in Louisville. Morgan

Ambulance service tested by multiple injury accident

Off-duty employees, F.D. members, other agencies meet challenge

Part of this story was lost due to a computer glich during page composition for last week's edition. We apologize. The complete version follows. —Editor

By Miranda Cantrell James

Local emergency services were spread thin last Thursday evening (June 14) when five people were injured in an automobile accident near the intersection of routes 7 and 1161, with two people being transported to UK via helicopter.

Sheriff's Deputy Kenny Dulin said Timmy Patrick, of West Liberty, was headed north in his Chevrolet S-10 pickup on Route 7 when a group of people from Bath and Rowan counties headed south lost control of their car in a curve and hit Patrick head on at approximately 6:57 p.m.

"The car's driver probably lost control because the road was wet," Dulin said. "Of the four people in the car, one was from Bath County and the other three were from Rowan County. Their names and other personal information were unavailable."

The car's occupants received multiple injuries including head and chest injuries as well as open fractures, for which two of whom were airlifted to UK by PHI Helicopter, of Morehead, and Lifenet, of Mt. Sterling.

Assistant Ambulance Service Director Jimmy Conley, who was at the scene, said the remaining car occupants were transported to Morgan County ARH via ambulances manned by off-duty employees who initially responded to the accident as volunteer rescue squad members.

"Two of our crews were gone to Morehead on runs," Conley said. "One crew responded from headquarters, while four off-duty employees responded in two other ambulances. The two crews gone to Morehead also responded on the way back from St. Claire Regional Medical Center, which made a total of five ambulances on the scene."

Conley said Patrick, who was also injured, refused care at the scene.

The Morgan County Ambulance Service generally staffs two paramedic crews on stand-by at all times, with call-in crews also available for a total of six ambulances.

"I would like to thank all off-duty employees and volunteers," Conley said. "With their assistance we were able to remove all patients from the scene within 30 minutes of arrival. Their service is greatly appreciated."

Responding agencies included the Morgan County Ambulance Service, Morgan County Rescue Squad, Hwy. 519 Volunteer Fire Department, Morgan County Road Department, Morgan County Sheriff's Department and West Liberty Police Department.

Jeff Norman ready to build on good foundation at MCH

'Players know what it takes to win,' says new head coach

By David Patrick

For years, Jeff Norman's dream has been to be a high school head football coach. And for more than a decade, he paid his dues – whether it be volunteering in youth football leagues or as a high school assistant.

Then just two weeks ago, that dream finally became reality. After a couple of misfires in hiring a new coach, Morgan County landed Norman to succeed Randy Wood, who revived a Cougar program that had struggled for the better part of 20 years. For Norman, it is the opportunity to build on a solid foundation.

"They've got a winning program established here and it's my job to build from that," Norman said during an interview this week. "I'm excited about working with the kids and watching them grow. My philosophy is that you work hard enough to outwork everybody else. That's what wins football games."

Norman is certainly no stranger to winning. He was a standout offensive guard and defensive lineman in the late 1980s for Coach Phillip Haywood at Belfry High School. After being involved for years with youth football in Morehead and serving as assistant coach at Rowan County High School, Norman accompanied former Viking coach Doug Preston to Louisville Western. In 2006, Western averaged nearly 40 points per game, winning nine in a row before finishing 10-2 and advancing to the state playoffs.

Norman says the news of his hiring at Morgan County made him "the happiest guy in the world." But that happiness soon took a hit with the news that his eldest son, Brett, along with four others, had been involved in a serious car accident near West Liberty.

Jeff Norman, new head coach at MCHS

"You go from being on cloud nine because of your new job to worried sick about the well-being of your son and the others involved," Norman said.

Thankfully, all five escaped with their lives. Brett has just been released from the hospital and fitted with a halo device to stabilize his neck. He had signed to play football at Morehead State this fall, but will now file for "redshirt" status. Doctors tell the Norman family that Brett has "a 50-50 chance" of playing again. Until that time, he will accompany his father on the sidelines at Morgan County as an assistant coach.

"It will be good having Brett down there with me," Norman said in discussing his son. "He knows his stuff and will be an asset to the program."

As for his new coaching job, Norman admits his new players have made a good first impression. Despite the late start, numbers have been in the 20s for practice – all with positive attitudes and the willingness to work hard.

"These kids know what it takes to win," Norman said. "We have tough young men – many of whom come straight from the hay field to practice football. They're willing to work hard for me and they know I'm going to work hard for them. Personally, I expect big things."

"Jeff has done everything possible to put himself in a position to be a head coach," Trusty said. "He just needed a place to get started and I'm glad we could bring him to Morgan County. This community should be very excited about its new coach and the team that he'll put on the field."

Norman's reputation is that of a man who knows the "X's and O's" of the game. "In two weeks, I'll have an in-depth look at the new coach's plans for offense and defense," Trusty said.

New coach is winning over players and administrators

By David Patrick

When Morgan County began its search for a new football coach, Jeff Norman's name was not even on the radar. In fact, athletic director Chris Trusty fielded more than 20 inquiries and even made two hires without hearing as much as a word from Norman. But all that changed late one Saturday night when Trusty received a phone call from the Louisville Western assistant. That's when things quickly began to fall in place.

"He asked me if the job was still open and I told him that it was," Trusty said on Tuesday. "We had a long conversation on the phone. Jeff told me that he wanted to come back to Eastern Kentucky and be a head coach. He was the very last person to inquire about the job. I guess that sometimes the best is saved for last."

With practice not officially starting until July 15, Norman began making the long drive from Louisville to West Liberty for some early one-on-one time with his players. Trusty says that effort is already making a good impression.

"The kids seem to really like him because he's a coach that will always put them first," said Trusty. "Jeff's got a very positive attitude and really believes he can win right away. The kids see that optimism and follow his lead. I like his direction and vision for our program."

Although Norman has never been a head coach, Trusty is confident the former high school assistant has what it takes to succeed. All he needed was the right opportunity.

Councilman Mark Walter supported buying locally.

"We have local businesses that pay taxes here," Walter said. "I think it is worth an extra $400 to support local people. We should spend our money at home as much as we possibly can."

Walters' fellow council members agreed, voting unanimously to purchase both police cruisers from Morgan Chevrolet in West Liberty sometime after the fiscal year begins July 1.

Fire Chief John Conley also gave a report on recent department activity, including an automobile fire at Index last weekend.

"There was an vehicle fire in the Dollar General parking lot at Index," Conley said. "Our response time was good and there were no injuries or damage to the building. I am pleased with our effort."

Conley also updated council members on the status of the department's new firetruck, which is currently under construction.

"The truck is scheduled to be finished in early October," Conley said. "However, I am still pushing for the end of September. Hopefully it will be possible for the truck to be finished by that time."

Before adjournment, Mayor Bob Nickell announced that guest Darlynn Barber, a field representative for U.S. Sen. Jim Bunning, was in attendance.

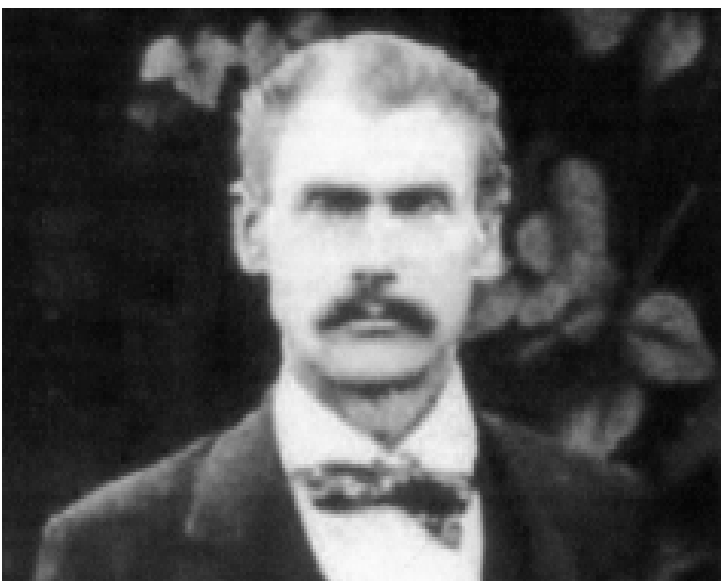
A NUGGET FROM THE PAST



Supt. Travis N. Barker

MORGAN COUNTY SCHOOL REPORT TWO YEARS ENDING JUNE 30, 1911

While the schools of Morgan County are not what they should be yet the one consolidated, four graded and seventy-four ungraded schools of this county are doing excellent work. We have built schools of this county are doing excellent work. We have built, since January, 1910, eighteen new school houses, and bought over $400.00 worth of new desks. Nearly every district in the county will have a good school house by the end of the year. The people are taking much interest in the election of trustees. We have made much improvement in both trustees and teachers, in the last twelve months.

West Liberty, the county seat, has a first-class High School in charge of well trained teachers, who are doing excellent work. Cannel City graded school has an up-to-date school building, 379 pupils, and an earnest corps of teachers doing a great educational work. Caney and Malone each have a graded school, but working under some difficulties. Crockett has a consolidated school of 187 pupils and will run nine months this year.

The future prospects for Morgan County, both financially and educationally, are brighter than ever before. Three railroads have already touched our county and prospects are good for more in the near future.

Give us a compulsory law that will compel, and all will be well.
T. S. Barker
Superintendent

The above is from a copy of the Biennial Report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction of Kentucky For The Two Years Ending June 30, 1911, and was submitted by Edwin R. Benton of Caney. The volume contained reports submitted by the superintendents of each of Kentucky's school districts. Included with each report is a photo of the superintendent. However, there was no picture of Supt. Barker with the Morgan County report. The above photo of Supt. Barker was located for Edwin by Dale Sheets of Woodsbend.

Other interesting facts from the state superintendent's biennial report: The student enrollment in Morgan County schools in 1911 was 4,819 (more than twice the district's current enrollment) and there 1,014 who were of school age but not enrolled. Hence the plea in the above report for a compulsory attendance law.

Deer fawns are best left alone; handling is against state law

This time of year is deer fawning season, and many people come across baby deer while mowing fields or working their yards. While it may be tempting to handle a fawn that appears abandoned, leaving wildlife alone is not only the best thing for the animal, but it is also the law.

"When people find a fawn that they think is abandoned, virtually all of the time that is not true," said David Yancy, senior wildlife biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. "The mother is usually 100 yards away or closer. You just can't see her."

Female deer give birth in May and June, with the peak of fawning occurring in the first two to three weeks of June. Deer fawns are six to eight pounds at birth and have hundreds of white spots to conceal them from predators. They are also born scentless and stay bedded during their first few weeks of life, with twins and triplets bedded separately. Their mother often leaves them for hours at a time to feed and keep potential predators' attention away from her young. She returns later to feed and care for her young. All of this is nature's way of taking care of its own. Humans should not interfere.

"If you are cutting hay or mowing and the fawn is in your way, look around and see if there is a part of the field that you will not be getting to today, or a tree, and move it over there," Yancy said. "What you shouldn't do is pick it up, bring it to us or keep it. What you've done is either killed it or condemned to a life of captivity."

Deer often cannot be released once taken into captivity, because they lack the survival skills needed to live in the wild and have come to associate people with food. Deer fawns may not survive if taken from the wild, and often cannot be returned successfully because they mother has given up searching for her young.

Landowners who mow their fields this time of year just to keep the grass low can help by delaying mowing until mid-July. By that time fawns are old enough to stand and run from the oncoming mower. If mowing in mid-July is too late for the landowner, delaying even until the first of July can help give fawns time to grow stronger.

Kentucky Fish and Wildlife does not issue permits for people to keep deer they find in the wild. Those who ignore the law are subject to citation, fines and may have their deer confiscated. The same rule applies to people who find a young deer in another state and want to bring it back to Kentucky. Bringing live deer into this state is a felony. The law was toughened last year because the importation of live deer threatens the state's deer herd with disease.

Keeping a deer for a pet is not a good idea.

"It's one of those things that almost always ends badly," Yancy said. "They go from about seven pounds to about 100 pounds in a year. They can hurt you without meaning to."

Deer are not the only ones giving birth this time of year – most wild animals have their young during the spring and early summer months. People come across not only deer fawns but all kinds of other young wildlife. The same guidelines that apply to deer fawns apply to all wildlife: it's best to leave them alone. Humans are poor substitutes for nature's care.

Sometimes people come across injured wildlife. The only people who are permitted to hold and rehabilitate injured wildlife are license rehabilitators. These professionals are trained to handle injured wildlife safely and take the best course of action for the animal. People should not bring injured wildlife to the Salato Wildlife Education Center in Frankfort. If you find an injured animal, call Kentucky Fish and Wildlife at 1-800-858-1549 or log on to fw.ky.gov to find a licensed rehabilitator near you.

The best way to care for wildlife during this important season is to leave animals alone. A camera or a pair of binoculars is a great way to enjoy wildlife without disrupting them. You will be doing Mother Nature a favor.

Identify trees with Natl. Arbor Day Foundation book

The National Arbor Day Foundation has a resource available to help an average person identify trees in a simple, step-by-step process.

What Tree Is That? is a useful 72-page pocket guidebook that helps distinguish different characteristics of many species of trees in Kentucky and the eastern and central regions of the United States. The book also includes dozens of detailed drawings which accurately illustrate the specific shapes and textures of different leaves, needs, acorns, berries, seed, pods, cones and other identifying features.

"Helping people enjoy and appreciate trees is central to the educational mission of the Arbor Day Foundation," said John Rosenow, president of the foundation. "Being able to identify trees is important to knowing how to care for them and how to plant the right tree in the right place."

To obtain a tree identification guide, send your name and address and $3 for each guide to What Tree Is That?, The National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska, City, NE 68410. You can also order the book online at www.arborday.org.

Foster care program opens at Wolfe Co.'s Dessie Scott

The number of children living in out-of-home care is growing at an alarming rate. More than 6,800 children now live in foster care homes in Kentucky. There is good news, however. Last year, more than 700 of those children were adopted, and of those, 80 percent were adopted by their foster families.

To aid and support the ever-increasing number of children in need, Buckhorn Children & Family Services is now offering Treatment Foster Care & Adoption Services in Wolfe, Morgan, Magoffin and Menifee counties. Program offices are located on the campus of Dessie Scott Children's Home.

Why Do Children Need Foster Care And Adoption Services?

Most children in foster care come from homes in which they were beaten, degraded or molested. Many were ignored and starved. There are many reasons:

• Some parents simply are not able to give appropriate physical and emotional care or supervision.

• Some parents and some children cannot control their behaviors.

• Some families have temporary crises, like health problems or loss of income and housing, and their children need foster care.

• Some parents have serious parenting problems because of drug abuse, mental illness or other conditions.

MSU offers online business course for contractors

Running a small business for contractors just got a lot easier, thanks to a new online course sponsored by Morehead State University's Office of Continuing Education.

Scott Paxton, author and CPA, designed the new online course so participants can generate reports to access where a particular project or job stands along with how to run the best reports for review on a monthly or yearly basis.

"I designed the course to show contractors how to avoid many of the big and often costly mistakes that a lot of QuickBooks users make," Paxton said.

Students will learn how to use QuickBooks to create custom and professional-looking contract estimates, and how to choose between different methods for billing clients, including progress invoicing and job-costing features. Participants will also explore options for dealing with tricky situations, like changing orders and retaining age requirements. Instruction will include how to properly set up accounts, items, customers and jobs along with how specific transactions impact the various accounts, and even some techniques to protect the business from fraud, prepare for tax time and generate useful and dynamic reports.

"QuickBooks 2007 for Contractors" can be taken online from the convenience of your home or office, at any time of the day or night.

Additional information on this course, which is a part of growing catalog of more than 300 classes, including face-to-face and instructor-facilitated online courses, may be obtained by calling MSU's Office of Continuing Education at 606-783-2875, or on the web at www.moreheadstate.edu/oce.

Sprinkle with garlic salt, grated Parmesan cheese, sesame or poppy seeds and bake in a 375 degree over for 20 to 25 minutes, turning to brown on all sides. That's a quick way to have almost-home-made breadsticks.

ENERGY SAVING TIPS

Lighting is one of the easiest places to start saving energy. Replacing your five most frequently used light fixtures or the bulbs in them with ENERGY STAR qualified lights can save more than $60 a year in energy costs. ENERGY STAR qualified compact fluorescent light bulbs (CFLs) provide high-quality light output, use less energy, and last 6–10 times longer than standard incandescent light bulbs, saving money on energy bills and replacement costs.

• Remember to always turn off your lights when leaving a room. Turning off just one 60-watt incandescent bulb that would otherwise burn eight hours a day can save about $15 per year!

Postal Service Expresses Thanks

In May the West Liberty postal employees, along with local post offices, collected non-perishable food items from customer's mailboxes. I am extremely proud of the donations many Morgan County residents provided. The final tally was between 1,000-1,5000 pounds of non-perishable foods that were collectd from mailboxes or dropped off at local post offices in Morgan County. I would like to thank all who participated in this event, including the employees of the West Liberty Post Office and local post offices; without them volunteering we would not be able to donate these food items to the local food bank in West Liberty. The food items assist those in need in our community.

With rising costs in our economy this food drive event will temporarily not allow a family to go without food. Thanks Morgan County! We look forward to another successful year in 2008.

Paternal grandparents are Ms. Stella Johnson, of Adele, and the late Mr. Larry Michael Johnson, of Paintsville. Paternal great-grandmother is Ms. Betty Davis, also of Adele. We would like to offer a very sincere and heartfelt thank you to everyone who has offered their help, support, and countless number of prayers during Carolina's very premature birth, extended hospital, stay, and continued growth and development. We have been extremely blessed as Carolina is truly one of God's little miracles. We are especially grateful to the doctors, nurses, and entire staff at the Kentucky Children's Hospital. We would also like to thank the Morgan County Ambulance Service, Morgan County Appalachian Regional Hospital, Morgan County ARH Home Health, and the Kentucky Children's Hospital Transport Team for their response and care with Carolina.

Headwaters Bass Club held its fifth tournment of the season—the club's first night tournment of the year—at Yatesville Lake June 9 and 10. The evening started out warm but the weather turned very cold. (Try fishing thirteen hours when the weather changes from nice to freezing; this makes fishing "tuff.") Some fared better then others, starting with first place going to Mark Payne fishing solo. Coming in second were Cordale Francis and Rick Salyer, and third place was won by Johnnie and Shelia Cantrell.

Headwaters Bass Club was off again last weekend to Cave Run Lake for tournament number six. The weather treated was a lot better this time; only a small amount of rain—easy to deal with as long as its warm. Coming in first was Mark Payne, again fishing solo. Second place went to Levi and Rachel Cantrell, who also came away with the big fish. Placing third were Danny Day and Tim Johnson. In two weeks, club members will be back at Yatesville Lake.

Perfect Attendance Recognized

East Valley Elementary School recently recognized fifth grader Emily Jenkins, 10, for six years' perfect attendance during kindergarten through fifth grade, as well as honor roll status and academic excellence in a variety of subjects. Emily, who is the daughter of Clyde and Irene Jenkins, of Upper Sand Lick, will enter sixth grade at Morgan County Middle School in August. She would like to thank her teachers at East Valley, which include Mrs. Daniels, kindergarten; Mrs. Ferguson, first grade; Mrs. Nickell, second grade; Mrs. Burchett, third grade; and Mrs. Murphy, fourth and fifth grades.

Blood drive set Thurs., July 12 at Com. Center

You don't have to leap from tall buildings to be a hero. Donating blood or platelets saves lives. Your donation could help save as many as three local patients who need you to be their hero. It doesn't take superhuman powers to perform a superhuman act. All you need to do is donate blood or platelets.

The need for blood is great. Every three seconds, someone in Kentucky needs a blood transfusion. That need continues to grow, but with just one blood donation, you can do your part to ensure that the local blood supply is at peak levels.

The requirements to be a donor are simple – 17 years of age, weigh at least 110 pounds and be in general good health. It takes less than an hour and you can do it again 56 days later.

And consider this. Please bring a friend or family member with you when you donate. You and your "blood buddy" can double the good you will do.

Donate at the Morgan County Community blood drive 12-7:30 p.m. Thursday, July 12, at the Community Center, Prestonsburg Street, in West Liberty. The drive is sponsored by the Morgan County Lions Club. Refreshments will be provided by the West Liberty homemakers.

O'Neal Named Deputy PVA Of The Year

Longtime Deputy PVA Michelle O'Neal, left, recently received the statewide Teri Bennett Excel Deputy of the Year Award from the Kentucky Property Valuation Administrators Association for 2007. O'Neal has served as Morgan County Deputy PVA for 16 years under recently-retired PVA Darrell Bradley, who left office on May 31. Bradley, shown presenting the award, said of O'Neal, "She has been a dedicated employee who always did anything I asked of her. It's hard to beat the three girls who currently serve as deputies in the local PVA office; they deserve every award they get."

Wells takes part in Natl. Young Scholars Pgm.

Local sixth-grader Bryce Wells, 11, son of Scott and Cindy Wells, of West Liberty, is taking part in the National Young Scholars Program (NYSP) this week, at the National 4-H Conference Center in Chevy Chase, Md. The program inspires outstanding fourth, fifth and sixth grade students to explore, invent, learn and think creatively.

NYSP gives students the chance to unleash their full learning potential as they further their interest in specific areas of study, such as the natural sciences, architecture, literature, musical theater, forensics, physics of flight, the human body, consumer marketing and Greek mythology. Throughout the program, young scholars engage in challenging coursework, gain a greater sense of independence and experience a renaissance of learning.

Interacting with other scholars who possess similar intellect and unique leadership abilities, each student will emerge prepared to advance at a rapid pace academically. The program culminates with student-created projects tying in leadership skills learned with the discoveries made in their specific area of study.

NYSP is sponsored by the National Center for Early Academic Excellence (NCEAE), an independent educational organization dedicated to identifying, inspiring and honoring America's most promising elementary school students.

Another Conley who always gives doubles, but not one of the brothers above, is Fred Conley, right, a regular and dedicated donor. Memory Hill & Roundabout

By Hazel B. Craft

June 25--The past two weeks have been hectic ones--for all of the Frank Hall family. I know it was for me. Frank was special to so many people--Phyllis (who was a great caretaker in his ilness and who planned a beautiful funeral), Greg (his son), Doug (his brother), Junior (his older brother) of Pueblo, Colorado; his cousin and her husband, Lynette and Terry Haslinger, of Mulvane, Kansas; a special niece, Tammy Hall Osiecki, of Florida, his many foster brothers and sisters of the Redeemed Regular Baptist Church, and his many friends and neighbors. I know he was special to me and my late husband, Wardie. He and Doug were the first members of our large family. I've always expressed to people that these two boys were more than special--no problem at all. This big house is full of Frank's contributions. Whatever I needed doing-- he did.

Ersal Bailey Gay, of Breathitt County, sent me information of a cousin and his daughter, Cecil Bailey and his daughter, Marcella Spencer's death. The two died within two weeks of each other. hey were both buried in the Jackson Cemetery.

Recently around twenty retired teachers met at Carter Caves for a retired teacher's meeting. Edwin Benton and I represented Morgan at the Eastern District meeting. Sure hope that more etired teachers will participate. The next Morgan County Retired meeting will be the second Tuesday of July at 12:00 at the Extension Building. This will be a special meeting honoring the 2007 retired teachers. Sure hope a good crowd will participate. Teachers, we need more participation.

I just talked to Edwin Benton. He reported that the reason our president of Morgan County Teachers Association wasn't present was that her husband, Sid Stewart, was in the hospital undergoing surgery. Edwin said he was home, doing good now.

Coming back to Frank. He had a beautiful funeral. Many, many thanks to all who attended and to Shorty Terry for the military services. Also many, many thanks to Dennis and Alice Robinson, of Mooresville, Indiana, and Bill Stamper and Wanda, of Paris, and his special niece, Tammy Osiecki, of Florida--all who came from a distance to attend Frank's funeral. Also to the ones who made the bountiful meal possible at the church.

Enclosed is a lovely picture of a 2nd grade school group made May 5, 1961--teacher Helen Potter. i hope to get a list of this group. Helen will you please send me a list? Hopefully there will be another picture soon from our beloved Cannel City School.

Foster care program opens at Wolfe Co.'s Dessie Scott

The number of children living in out-of-home care is growing at an alarming rate. More than 6,800 children now live in foster care homes in Kentucky. There is good news, however. Last year, more than 700 of those children were adopted, and of those, 80 percent were adopted by their foster families.

To aid and support the ever-increasing number of children in need, Buckhorn Children & Family Services is now offering Treatment Foster Care & Adoption Services in Wolfe, Morgan, Magoffin and Menifee counties. Program offices are located on the campus of Dessie Scott Children's Home.

Why Do Children Need Foster Care And Adoption Services?

Most children in foster care come from homes in which they were beaten, degraded or molested. Many were ignored and starved. There are many reasons:

• Some birth parents simply are not able to give appropriate physical and emotional care or supervision.

• Some parents and some children cannot control their behaviors.

• Some families have temporary crises, like health problems or loss of income and housing, and their children need foster care.

• Some parents have serious parenting problems because of drug abuse, mental illness or other conditions.

• Some birth parents voluntarily place their children for adoption.

Buckhorn currently has over 100 families across the state of Kentucky providing homes with love, care, understanding, security, structure and guidance to children with broken spirits. Their damaged bodies, minds and souls receive treatment through families and staff who want to help them change their lives and their futures.

Foster families have the unique opportunity of working one-on-one with children who struggle with trust, limits, hygiene, school relationships and responsibility. Foster families have the incredible opportunity to make a difference in the life of a child.

We need you to make a difference! If you have extra time, extra bedrooms and a place in your heart for a child in need, please call Andrea Brooks at 606-624-6445, or you may call 800-472-3678.

For additional information about Buckhorn programs, or children and families in need, please visit www.buckhorn.org.

National Nursing Assistants Week was celebrated June 14-June 21 this year. This is a week set aside for honoring the hard work and dedication nursing assistants provide each and every day of their career. This year in the spirit of showing our appreciation for our nursing assistants, we asked Judge Executive Tim Conley to join us in honoring these hard working individuals.

Judge Executive Conley proclaimed June 14-21, 2007 as Nursing Assistants Week in Morgan County. KHEAA student aid pgm. benefits 304 local students

Morgan County students received $562,769 in student financial aid administered by the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) during the 2005-2006 academic year. Of that amount, Morgan County students received:

• 203 Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarships (KEES) totaling $280,417.

• 194 College Access Program (CAP Grants totaling $271,152.

• 4 Kentucky Tuition Grants (KTG) totaling $11,200.

In addition to state student-aid programs, KHEAA and its sister agency, The Student Loan People, administer the Federal Family Education Loan Program (FFELP) to help Kentucky students pay higher education expenses. Over 54,000 borrowers saved more than $40 million in 2006 with zero-free loans, principal and interest rate reductions and generous interest and loan forgiveness for teachers, nurses and public service attorneys through the Best in Class, Best in Care and Best in Law programs.

As state-created, non-profit entities, KHEAA and The Student Loan People annually provide millions for state student-aid awards, administration of FFELP and financial aid programs and services, outreach programs and borrower benefits to address Kentucky's critical shortage of professions, all at no cost to the commonwealth or Kentucky taxpayers.

THE MEANINGFUL LIFE

Through faith, man experiences the meaning of the world; through action, he is to give it a meaning.

New laws go into effect this week

FRANKFORT, Ky. – New laws approved during the Kentucky General Assembly's 2007 session went into effect on June 26.

Among the measures slated to take effect that day are laws that will raise the minimum wage, make human trafficking a felony and give the Transportation Cabinet authority to raise speed limits on interstate highways and parkways.

The Kentucky Constitution says that legislation approved by the General Assembly goes into effect as state law 90 days after a legislative session ends, unless a bill specifies a different effective date as soon as it is signed by the governor.

New laws going into effect on June 26 include measures on the following issues:

• Assistance dogs. Senate Bill 23 will prohibit the denial of emergency medical treatment to an assistance dog because of a handler's inability to pay prior to treatment.

• Deceptive business practices. HB 246 will prohibit flower shops from misrepresenting their business locations in telephone directories.

• Human trafficking. SB 43 takes aim at human trafficking by making it a felony in Kentucky to force someone into labor, domestic work or the sex trade.

• Jury duty. SB 111 will allow a mother who is breastfeeding a child to be excused from jury duty.

• License plates. HB 390 will eliminate all fees for special Gold Star Mothers license plate that are available to mothers who lost a son or daughter in service to the United States.

• Methamphetamine lab cleanup. HB 94 will establish standards and procedures for authorities to follow to ensure proper cleanup of the toxic materials left behind by illegal methamphetamine labs.

• Minimum wage. HB 305 will increase the current minimum wage of $5.15 by $2.10 over the next two years. The legislation requires that the state's minimum wage increase to $5.85 on June 26; $6.55 on July 1, 2008; and $7.25 on July 1, 2009. If the federal minimum wage is increased beyond the amounts called for in HB 305, Kentucky's minimum wage will mirror the federal level.

• Military burial. HB 280 will require that a funeral director involved in arrangements for a deceased veteran provide a fact sheet stating military burial rights.

• School bus safety. HB 230 will prohibit school bus drivers from using cell phones while transporting students. Exceptions would be made for drivers without two-way radios who need to communicate with their dispatchers and in times of emergency.

• Sex offender registry. SB 65 will require registered sex offenders to include their e-mail, instant message and other Internet identities on the state's sex offender registry.

• Speed limits. SB 83 will allow the Transportation Cabinet to increase the speed limits on interstates and parkways in Kentucky to 70 miles per hour in areas where it is determined that vehicles can travel safely at that speed.

• Veterans' families. HB 128 will expand the eligibility for education benefits available to family members of deceased or disabled veterans.

A reporter sets out to cover the 5th Kentucky Infantry for his hometown paper during the War Between the States

The following is the first of a planned series of articles by local historian, Tony Adkins, that will be published from time, dealing with the Civil War as it might have been experienced by an adventurous Morgan County noncombatant reporter for his hometown newspaper. Some literary license has been taken in regard to The Mountain Scorcher, which was not established until some years after the war.

April 1st, 1862 — Today I was summoned to report to the office of the Mountain Scorcher. I was told that Mr. Thornly, editor of the Scorcher, wanted me there as soon as possible. I entered the office expecting to be assigned to cover another social event in West Liberty. When I entered I saw Mr. Thornly and co-editor Colonel John Tom Hazelrigg in the dimly lit smoke filled room. Mr. Thornly informed me that he wanted me to head for Virginia as soon as feasible and catch up with Captains Hiram Hawkins, Jack May and A and C Companies of the 5th Kentucky Infantry. I was to keep him informed of their whereabouts and exploits. Many Morgan County men are part of the units, including some of my Adkins cousins.

This being April Fools Day I wondered if this was a prank at my expense. I have pestered Mr. Thornly time and again to let me go along with the 5th and to report back to him. No sirree, he would have no part of it. I enlisted in the Confederate Army at Mt. Sterling just after the opening of hostilities last year but my severe nearsightedness led to my discharge soon after. I was away at the time Bull Nelson and his Yankee troops skirmished with Jack May's men of A Company in West Liberty last October. All I could find to report on when I returned was a few holes made by cannon balls near the intersection of Main Street and the Salyersville Road. Nelson's troops had fired on Confederate troops in town from the bluffs across the river. Company A retired along the Salyersville Road heading east in the direction of Prestonsburg and so ended the battle. Word came later of a battle at Ivy Mountain in Floyd County. I was ready to head out then but Mr. Thornly would not agree. Again in January of this year travelers heading west told of a battle at Middle Creek in Floyd County. It looked as if the war would be over before I could get there. I felt that there was no use beating a dead horse but refused to give up. I thought I had earned my way out of the position as Mr. Thornly's "printer's devil" but maybe not.

I was tired of writing about Mr. Caskey's cow getting into Mr. Johnson's corn patch or covering the society news of West Liberty. I had no means to strike out on my own, but what was a fledgling reporter to do? I pondered on a way to achieve my goal. One warm day in March I was walking down Main Street and spotted Colonel John T. Hazelrigg sitting in a rocker on the porch of the Tavern.

He was a fine, well respected gentleman and I was somewhat timid about approaching him. I knew that he had hauled a hand-operated printing press from Mt. Sterling a few years ago to start our newspaper. Surely he would see the need to provide news about the war to our citizens. I finely got up the courage to step onto the porch and cleared my throat to get his attention. He raised his hat from over his eyes and squinted in the morning sun. He said "Good morning, Mr. Adkins, what is on your mind this morning?" I was skittish as I began to explain my predicament and woes. He listened patiently, nodding in agreement as I spoke. He arose from the rocker and towered above me, looking all the more intimating. He was dressed in his usual black frock coat and silk top hat. His fine linen shirt was white as freshly fallen snow and his black riding breeches were tucked into knee length riding boots. How he kept the boots so clean and black on our muddy streets was a mystery to me. He said, "I think that your proposal is excellent and would be a boost to our paper and the morale of Morgan County. I will speak directly to Mr. Thornly about the matter." He was every bit the gentleman that I thought he was and I felt some better about my possibilities. He stepped down from the porch and rounded the corner of the Tavern in the direction of the Scorcher's office. I walked down Main Street toward our small house on Spring Branch, pondering on the morning's events. Could I hope against hope that I would get the chance to be on hand as history was being made? My most pressing concern was how to tell my wife Cassandra about my plans and the possibility of being away maybe for months. We have been married for only a few years and this might not be too well received. I decided to wait until I had word from Mr. Hazelrigg before bringing the matter up. March came and went and I had just about given up. On the morning of April 1st, as I stated earlier, my situation changed for the better.

I slowly opened the door to the office of the Mountain Scorcher, peered into the dimly lit room and entered. Mr. Thornly was dressed in his usual dark corduroy pants and white shirt with blue pinstripes. His sleeves were rolled up to the elbows and his eye shade was pulled down close over his eyes. His hands were smudged with printer's ink as he feverishly set type for the next edition. He had his teeth clamped down tightly on one of his stubby cigars as he puffed away, filling the room with obnoxious clouds of foul smelling smoke. He squinted and began by telling me he had not been clear about my request until Mr. Hazelrigg enlightened him on the matter.

It was true; I am getting the chance to prove myself as a reporter! I am to use my own horse and would be paid $10.00 a month plus a small allowance for provisions. I was to pick up my supplies from Mr. John W. Hazelrigg's mercantile down the street. I was to be careful on my journey and to look out for "bushwhackers and home guards."

It was no April Fool's prank after all and I could hardly wait to get started. Mr. Hazelrigg was tinkering with the iron Washington hand press as Mr. Thornly talked. He walked back to a desk in the rear of the room as he continued listening to the conversation. He reached into a drawer and pulled out a .36 caliber 1851 Colt Navy revolver. He said, "It is better to have this and not need it than to need it and not have it." He cautioned me to be wary of whom I associated with and wished me "God speed."

I practically ran to the mercantile with my letter of credit from Mr. Thornly. I would have to travel light but needed enough to last until I reached the 5th Kentucky's encampment somewhere near Lebanon, in Russell County, Virginia. I entered the store and saw Mr. J. W. Hazelrigg standing behind the counter. The store smelled of leather, tobacco, dry goods and various other items. I explained why I was there as I handed him the letter of credit. He suggested three pounds of bacon, a sack of hardtack and one of corn dodgers, and three air tights of peaches. The pile became higher as he placed the items on the counter. We added a pound each of sugar, coffee and salt. I asked for a pound of black powder, a bag of .36 caliber pistol balls and a box of percussion caps. He put a piece of oilcloth and a bag of oats for my horse on the pile. Mr. Hazelrigg suggested a flint and tinder kit for building fires. He put in a small bag of sweets gathered from jars on the counter as a favor to me. I made my way down Main Street with my load in the direction of our house. Now all I had to do was explain to Cassandra why this was a good idea.

I laid my plunder on the porch and as I entered the house our five year old Mary and two year old Elizabeth ran to meet me. The aroma of a home cooked meal filled the house and I wondered when I would have another. We sat down at our small table and I asked the blessing before we began. After some small talk I blurted out the news about my assignment from Mr. Thornly. Cassandra said that she suspected that I had finally worn him down and if I really felt that this was important to go ahead. All of my worry was for naught. We spent the afternoon packing my supplies into saddlebags.

We rolled extra clothing, a slicker and blanket into the oilcloth and secured it with leather straps. I wrote out instructions to give to Mr. Thornly in the event that I met an unfortunate end while on my journey. My $10.00 salary is to be paid to Cassandra while I am away. After further discussion we decided that she and the girls would go with me as far as White Oak and they would spend a few weeks with her family there at the May residence. She is a descendent of Caleb May of the Magoffin County May family. We decided to leave early the next morning.

I was up early and eager to get started. I left the house without awakening Cassandra and headed for the livery behind the Tavern. I made arrangements to borrow a spring wagon to take as far as White Oak. Mr. Walsh brought the wagon out after hitching up the horse. I led out my horse, "Old Dock," and tied him to the back of the wagon and threw my 1847 Grimsley saddle into the wagon. I entered the Scorcher's office and gave Mr. Thornly my written instructions and said goodbye. He gave me several notepads, pencils and an oilcloth pouch to keep them in. I rounded the corner and entered the Tavern, having been tantalized by the aroma of breakfast being prepared. I ordered four freshly baked cathead biscuits filled with thick slices of smoked bacon. Mrs. Walsh wrapped them in newsprint and I was ready to begin. This would be our meal as we traveled to White Oak. I drove the wagon to our house and loaded my saddlebags and kit into the wagon. Cassandra was up and had their things ready to load into the wagon. The morning was chilly and the girls were snuggled in blankets as we began our journey that would hopefully lead me into Virginia. The rays of the sun poked through the mist like giant fingers and promised a warm spring day. We turned left onto Garrett Highway and headed out of town. We passed Mr. Caskey's blacksmith shop as we left the limits of West Liberty. Smoke was already rising from his forge as he prepared for the day's work.

The spring wagon bounced along the road, such as it was. It was merely an "improved" cow path in some places. We could see deep ruts in the road left by Nelson's wagons and cannon carriages as he followed Jack May's troops last October. I hoped to follow the same route to Licking Station where I would take the Pound Gap Road through Prestonsburg, Piketon and into Virginia. We passed the fine log house belonging to Robert Day as we traveled east of town along the river. Spring was evident at the Day home with Easter lilies and redbuds in full bloom.

We crossed the river at the ford above town without difficulty and made good time in spite of road conditions. We enjoyed the warm morning sun and feasted on our biscuits and cold milk in a meadow beside the river. Old Dock seemed content as he plodded along behind the wagon. About noon we topped a small rise and the small village of White Oak lay before us. White Oak was a spamm community consisting of the White Oak Christian Church, a store and a few houses. Cassandra became more anxious as her family home came into view. We turned onto the dirt road that led up Shingle Tree Branch to the May house. As we stopped next to the house Allen May and his wife Ida came out the door. Thomas' parents, John and Elizabeth, sat on the porch in rockers. Inside the house we found Cassandra's parents, Robert "River Bob" May and wife Ofra. It is rumored that "River Bob" got his name from riding the river boats of the Mississippi to Natchez and New Orleans. I wonder how many men have met their demise from his long barreled .44 Army revolver. I have never been one to ask him many questions about such rumors. From the good smells coming from the kitchen it appeared that we were in time for the noon meal. Allen unhitched the horse and led it toward the barnyard. I followed with Old Dock as a mini reunion was held on the porch. After a meal of fried chicken and all the fixings the afternoon was spent catching up on all the family news. Early the next morning, April 3rd, I brought Old Dock out of the barn and hitched him to the gatepost. After breakfast I put the old Grimsley on him and threw the saddle bags across his back. I tied the oilcloth roll and a sack of biscuits and ham from Mrs. May behind the saddle and was ready to go. I had decided that being a non-combatant I would be better off to go unarmed in case I was stopped by Yankees or Home Guards. I left the Colt Navy, powder, balls and caps with Allen and asked him to return them to Mr. Hazelrigg when Cassandra returned home. I decided to leave at 8 o'clock as I had many miles to travel. I left amid hugs and tears and well wishes. I stopped at the end of the lane and turned for one last look at Cassandra as she stood by the gate; she sure looked pretty in the morning sun.

Storm downs trees, property in Lacy Creek area Sunday

Numerous trees were felled and some buildings were damaged by a fast-moving thunder storm that passed through the Jones Creek - Cottle - Lacy Creek area late Sunday afternoon.

A barn reportedly was blown down in the Jones Creek area. On Lacy Creek, the unoccupied residence of the late Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Nickell was damaged by a falling tree, a utility building on the property of Billy Conley was blown from its foundation, and numerous trees were downed on Lacy Creek and on Contrary Fork and Pelfrey Fork, blocking traffic.

Gateway name change is official Sunday, July 1st

WEST LIBERTY, KY.--On July 1, 2007, Gateway Community Services Organization will officially become Gateway Community Action Agency as part of a national awareness campaign for Community Action.

This change is being implemented to provide a common identifying name (Community Action Agency) with more than 1,000 legally recognized community action agencies throughout the United States. Gateway is one of 23 community action agencies in Kentucky. Collectively, these agencies are referred to as the Community Action Partnership.

In March, Gateway's Board of Directors voted to adopt this national brand in order to achieve the level of recognition and visibility Gateway richly deserves. "National recognition brings new partnerships, new funding, and opens new doors" said Carolyn Ingram, Gateway's Board Chairperson.

"This awareness campaign underscores our dedication to develop and nurture the process of self sufficiency and to make the Gateway region of Eastern Kentucky a better place to live," said Dennis Gulley, executive director of Gateway Community Action Agency. "Many people familiar with Gateway don't realize we are part of a poverty fighting network with nearly one thousand member agencies, so this effort allows us to express the common commitment we share with other community action agencies to help people and change lives. We are changing our name to better describe what we do and to visually connect us to a national network. We will continue offering the residents of Bath, Menifee, Montgomery, Morgan and Rowan counties a comprehensive array of programs with solutions to help our clients turn hope into reality," said Gulley.

Gateway was formed in 1974 and operates some two dozen social service programs. Programs such as Head Start, US Department of Energy Heating Assistance (LIHEAP), Home Weatherization, Affordable Housing, Healthy Marriage Initiatives, Community Service Block Grant programs, Adult Day Care, Workforce Adult and Youth programs and Public Transportation make up just a few of the programs offered by Gateway Community Action Agency.
